

Recourse for Your Tax-Related Problems

Revenu Québec makes every effort to provide the best possible service. However, if you are dissatisfied with the way your file has been handled or with the quality of the services you have received, let us know and we will look into the matter.

Our client services

Our courteous and competent staff will help you resolve your problem and will handle your file with complete confidentiality. Please contact our staff: most problems can be resolved by a telephone call or a letter. Our contact information is on the back of this folder.

Complaint

If you feel that Revenu Québec has not given your problem the attention it deserves, you may file a complaint with the Direction du traitement des plaintes. However, the Direction has no decision-making power.

The Direction makes sure that problems related to taxes or to the collection of support payments are directed to the appropriate administrative units. The Direction contacts the proper Revenu Québec branches to try to resolve these problems. As required, the Direction may issue an opinion on the decision made by the branch in charge of reviewing your file.

In response to your complaint, Revenu Québec will advise you by telephone or in writing of its decision and the reasons therefor.

The service offered by the Direction du traitement des plaintes does not replace the other recourses available to resolve your tax-related problems. Therefore, if you wish to preserve your rights, you should file a notice of objection or an appeal within the prescribed time. Filing a complaint with the Direction du traitement des plaintes does not suspend or extend the time for exercising these other recourses.

How to frame your complaint

Your complaint must include the following information:

- your name, address, and daytime telephone number, as well as the name, address and telephone number of your representative, where applicable;
- your social insurance number;
- your Québec enterprise number (NEQ), and identification and file numbers, where applicable;
- the taxation period or taxation year covered by your complaint;
- a full description of your problem, including factors that seem unimportant to you;
- a detailed list of the steps taken with Revenu Québec (dates of telephone calls, letters sent, names of persons you have spoken to or met with, and dates of these contacts);
- the results you have obtained to date.

You may send your written complaint to the following address:

Direction du traitement des plaintes
Revenu Québec
3800, rue de Marly, secteur 6-2-4
Québec (Québec) G1X 4A5

You may also fax your complaint to 418 652-4036.

In addition, you may call the Direction du traitement des plaintes at 418 652-6159 or, toll-free, at 1 800 827-6159.

Application for cancellation of interest, penalties or charges

The Minister may cancel interest, penalties or charges that you must pay pursuant to a tax law in the following situations:

- You are unable to repay your debt.
- You incurred the interest, penalty or charge as a result of an action of Revenu Québec.
- An exceptional situation beyond your control prevented you from meeting your tax obligations.

How to file an application

You must send us a letter in which you explain your situation or complete one of the following forms:

- Application for the Cancellation of Interest, Penalties or Charges (MR-94.1-V);
- Application for the Cancellation of Interest, Penalties or Charges Related to the GST or the QST (FP-4288-V).

These forms are available on our website at www.revenu.gouv.qc.ca.

If you are dissatisfied with the decision, you can ask for a review. To do so, send us a letter, form MR-94.1-V or form FP-4288-V and explain why you believe the decision is unfair or unfounded.

The Minister's review decision is final and cannot be objected or appealed.

Objection

If, after contacting Revenu Québec, you are dissatisfied with the results obtained, you may contest the notice of assessment or determination, or the Minister's decision concerning an application for a property tax refund.

A notice of objection is an essential step in safeguarding your right of appeal. As a rule, you must serve a notice of objection within 90 days of the date on which the contested notice was issued. Objections are free of charge.

At the time you contest a notice of assessment, you may have an unpaid balance relating to an amount in dispute. Unless your balance relates to source deductions or consumption taxes, Revenu Québec will take no measures to recover the amount (or, in the case of a large corporation, half the amount) while your file is under review. Even when recovery measures are suspended, interest at the prescribed rate is charged on any unpaid amount. This is the case regardless of whether you have filed a notice of objection or an appeal.

You will find further information about the objection process on your notice of assessment or notice of determination. You may also consult the folder Filing an Objection: It's your right. Make it work for you! (IN-308-V), which describes our cooperative approach to the objection process.

How to file an objection

To file an objection, you must send us a letter setting forth the facts and reasons for your objection. You must include information such as the number of the notice you are contesting and the date on which it was issued. You may also use one of the following forms:

- Notice of Objection (MR-93.1.1-V) ;
- Notice of Objection (GST/QST) (FP-159-V).

These forms are available on our website at www.revenu.gouv.qc.ca.

Appeal

If you are dissatisfied with Revenu Québec's decision regarding a notice of objection, you may file an appeal with the Civil Division of the Court of Québec. You may also pursue the matter before the courts if Revenu Québec did not render a decision within the time period provided by the Act respecting the Ministère du Revenu or the Excise Tax Act.

In certain cases, you may contest the decision by filing a summary appeal to the Small Claims Division of the Court of Québec.

How to file an appeal

The appeal process is explained in the following documents:

- Information on Judicial Recourse (COM-332-V);
- Appeals to the Tax Court of Canada in Matters Concerning the GST/HST (FPR-307-V).

These documents are available on our website at www.revenu.gouv.qc.ca.

Protecteur du citoyen

The role of the Protecteur du citoyen is to monitor Québec government departments and agencies and have them redress any negligence, error, injustice or abuse. Consequently, the Protecteur du citoyen has the authority to investigate complaints involving the public administration.

If you feel you have been treated unfairly in any tax-related matter, you may file a complaint with the Protecteur du citoyen. The Protecteur du citoyen will first make sure that you have done everything within your power to resolve the matter, and exhausted all other forms of available recourse.

The Protecteur du citoyen has no decision-making power. However, the Protecteur du citoyen may make recommendations to various government bodies.

How to file a complaint

You may file a complaint in writing, in person or by telephone. A form is also available on the website of the Protecteur du citoyen at www.protecteurducitoyen.qc.ca.
